

Powering Climate Solutions: Invest. Empower. Amplify.

About Justice Climate Fund

Justice Climate Fund (JCF) is a mission-driven nonprofit mobilizing climate capital to strengthen under-resourced communities across America. We envision a future where all Americans have access to clean energy, cleaner air and water, a healthier environment, and economic resilience. We're advancing that vision through transformative investments in clean energy that cut pollution, create good-paying jobs, and protect our natural resources.

JCF partners with investors, a coalition of green banks, community lenders, and local stakeholders to design innovative financing solutions that quickly deliver equitable climate benefits and build long-term economic and environmental resilience in the communities that need it most. Reaching net-zero emissions by 2050 requires an estimated $200 billion in investments in under-resourced communities¹.

Market Demand

In JCF's initial round of funding, applicants identified $8 billion in clean energy projects and requested $83 million in technical assistance grants. Initial recipients were selected to receive $247 million in grants for more than 800 projects across 38 states, Washington, D.C., and Puerto Rico. Projects include school retrofits in Louisiana and Mississippi to reduce utility bills; financing for energy upgrades for small businesses in Tennessee and Virginia to lower operating costs; and energy-efficient affordable housing in persistent-poverty communities in Texas and Nebraska.

Our strategy—invest, empower, amplify—mobilizes funding to solve urgent climate challenges. We empower community lenders and local stakeholders to deliver climate solutions in communities that have been historically left behind. And we amplify our impact through powerful storytelling, data, and shared learning.

Meeting the Moment

We've built the right framework—national in scope and rooted in community. We do more than fund projects. We build sustainable solutions, bridge gaps, and connect the right partners to strengthen the broader ecosystem of climate and clean energy financing.

JCF is seeking philanthropic and mission-aligned investors to scale community lender capacity in high-need regions, expand clean energy access, and build a sustainable infrastructure for climate equity. Your partnership will allow us to leverage the reach and expertise of our team and national network to build a more just, resilient, climate-smart future—together.
